

“POTENTIAL DIES BEFORE IT HAS A CHANCE TO GROW”

We're here to change that

Mission Statement

We exist to ensure that no student's future is determined by their circumstances, but by their ambition – empowering young minds to explore confidently, grow freely, and ignite passion.

Why We're Here

Students everywhere have passions and goals, but the chance to pursue them too often depends on things outside their control—like where they live, what they can afford, or who they know. Talent and ambition are everywhere. Opportunity should be too.

In LA...

of students living at or below the poverty line

1 in 3

students of color don't feel comfortable or supported in both middle and high schools

32.9%

of college students drop out every year due to choosing the wrong field.

We believe

Your goals shouldn't depend on where you start.

But Hey, Don't Other Resources Exist?

Yes! - However, even when free programs exist through nonprofits, universities, or local businesses, many students never hear about them. Those without well-connected families or mentors are left out—not for lack of talent, but for lack of access.

So what are we going to do about it?

At a glance – Onboarding Process

Students are prompted to share their interests and preferences with us in order to provide from the very beginning.

Enrichment opportunities are influenced directly off these choices but additionally influenced by the student's use and history with our AI model. Preferences can always be changed from a user's profile

AI Use

Leveraging current AI innovations, we have integrated a conversational GPT-4 model to advance student growth and engagement. The model intakes student insights about their career goals, interests and concerns regarding their academic advancements, then cross references our opportunity database to provide potential “matches” the student may find interesting as well as exclude any opportunities students no longer show interest in.

Our model is able to grow with the student to provide the absolute best aid in navigating their careers. Additionally students are able to understand why some opportunities have been identified as “matches”, which are influenced by conversation insights. Students are also able to correct, clarify or completely delete any conversation history.

Information Display

Another crucial component we considered is how information is presented to students. Keeping it easy to digest, with key details upfront and a clear action step, we integrated the following design choices.

Validation

We analyzed what students and school personnel said in response to this problem. Collecting community pain points and desires to see if ACSO was a fit.
The response was clear...

I think the biggest challenge would probably be having the knowledge of what these opportunities are and what the requirements are.

- Samuel Lam, South East High School Teacher

Priority are the high achieving kids, then the regular kids, they don't get any of them."

-Mr.Gutierrez, 8th Grade Academic Counselor, Charles Drew Middle School

"They don't have the funds or the technology."

- Jennifer Sanchez, Parent Rep., Sepulveda Middle School

"They don't know where to ask for those resources."

- Ruby Ramirez, College Counselor, South East High School

"We become the barrier"

-Mr.Gutierrez, 8th Grade Academic Counselor, Charles Drew Middle School

"I feel like I've been robbed of a proper education"

- Diana Aguilar, UC Berkeley Student, SEHS Alumni

"Some students lacked the knowledge about getting involved in opportunities"

-Maurice Burman, Magnet Academic Counselor

"Promote the activity or event in a way that attracts students attention and advocate for more funding"

- Diego Rivera Learning Complex, Psychiatric Social Worker

"Communicate such opportunities more and more, one post, email or announcement may not be enough"

- Thelma Habit, School Counselor
